Tasting Culture: Nordic and Mediterranean Food, Tradition, and Nutrition

FEES: $5,975

We eat to live. But food isn't just about survival. We express who we are through our food. How we eat is also shaped by other forces, often invisible to us in our everyday lives. Over four weeks we will explore Denmark and Greece—allowing us to understand both the commonalities and the differences that such forces bring to food and cuisine, as well as people's imagination and inventiveness in creating something to eat.

Note: This course will be co-taught by two faculty - half on location with DIS in Copenhagen, and half with CYA in Athens.
